COUNTY BOARD ACTS TO HALT CHANNEL PLAN

Acting on the request of the Orange County Conservation League of Seal Beach, petitioned through a letter and by the personal appearance of H. L. Bishop, its president, the Orange county board of supervisors today adopted a resolution opposing the application of Frank Haegle, Sunset Beach, for a permit to fence off certain sloughs in Alamitos Bay for the propagation of oysters. Haegle, known as "The Skipper" and operator of "Skipper's Cafe," has applied to the War department for permission to close two channels. The resolution of protest adopted by the supervisors will be sent to the War department. In asking the county to cooperate in protesting granting of the application the Orange County Conservation League said that it did not object to the propagation of oysters but to Haegle's motive in applying for the permit. Bishop said that Haegle had declared that he was not interested in the propagation of oysters in the two channels to be closed. It was intimated that Haegle is planning to use the channels, known as Goose Creek and Hog Island slough, as a private duck hunting preserve. Bishop said that Haegle plans to close the sloughs to others, through the permit to propagate oysters, operate them as private hunting grounds guiding parties of hunters, for a fee, to the damage of others. The protest also intimated that there were other reasons for protesting the granting of Haegle's application. These reasons were not discussed.

SUPERVISORS GIVEN REPORT ON LOAN DATA

County supervisors today were advised by Welfare Director B. V. Curry of progress made in the county survey preparatory to applying for an unemployment loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Curry said that the necessary data has been compiled in the northern part of the county leaving the information still to be secured from the Beach cities and coast areas. He estimated that the entire report would be completed by next Tuesday.

Whether or not the data will be compiled in time for the county to get action on its application for March is problematic.

It was pointed out that in addition to being necessary in securing a loan for Orange county the data being compiled under direction of Curry will be valuable to the county in other work for a long period of time. The report as required with applications for Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans, must show the number of unemployed men registered, the amounts already spent by cities and county for their relief and the financial status of the applying communities and the county.

OFFICERS GET CONFESSION ON BURGLARY JOB

Sheriff's officers today cleared up another burglary when they declared they had obtained a confession from Elisha Morales, of Atwood, now in the county jail, that he had burglarized the home of Dr. George S. Von Wedelstaedt, on East Orangethorpe avenue December 16, 1932.

Morales is in jail in connection with the burglary of the home of Fred Collins on February 2, 1933, at which time a number of household goods were stolen and later recovered. He has already pleaded guilty to this "job" and asked for probation. The probation hearing is set for Friday in the superior court.

Deputy sheriffs, after hearing the confession of the Von Wedelstaedt burglary, recovered a radio receiving set taken in the burglary, they announced. Several other articles, including a clock, a rifle and a pistol were stolen at the time, they announced.

At the same time, it was announced that Morales is wanted on a burglary charge in Glendale, and he will be turned over to authorities there after his cases here have been disposed.

PREPARATIONS Y. M. C. A. WILL FOR BIG BALL STAGE ANNUAL MEET THURSDAY

Report on ticket sales, acceptance of distinguished guests, decisions regarding decorations, music, program and other features of the annual D. A. V. Military ball to be held tomorrow night in Valencia hallroom, provided a busy and interesting session for the Citizens' committee, last night holding its final session for this year in the A. G. Flagg home, 1320 North Broadway.

Major Earl B. Hawks, commander of Jack Fisher chapter, D. A. V. and general chairman of the committee, expressed satisfaction in the various reports offered, for indications are that tomorrow night's ball will rank in attendance, brilliancy, interest and proceeds with its predecessors.

Introduction at the 1932 version of this festivity, of numbers by the Legion Drum Corps, and their stirring rhythms as accompaniment for the grand march which was formally opened, proved so popular that everyone will be interested in learning that the Drum Corps will repeat this year's ball still recall the impressiveness of the grand march led by the uniformed Corps, whose members then formed at one end of the ballroom as the marchers continued in complicated figures until the first strains of the orchestra music signaled that dancing was to begin.

Although the committee's last meeting has been held, individual members will be unceasing in their activities until the ball is an accomplished fact. Some of the last minute duties include decorating the Valencia hallroom, and Mrs. H. H. Reeves, chairman, and her decorating committee will have a busy day tomorrow, placing the banners and patriotic symbols. Equally busy will be Mrs. F. E. Coulter in last-minute preparations for the program features, and Mrs. Jack Fisher and Mrs. A. G. Flagg, in preparing gallons of fruit punch for thirty dancers.

Entertainment to be interspersed with dancing, will include introduction of distinguished guests by Judge James B. Tucker, master of ceremonies; the address by the guest of special honor, Colonel Nelson M. Holderman, numbers by the Musical Arts octet with Miss Ruth Armstrong as accompanist, and solos by Ivan G. Edwards, well known Hollywood tenor.

Committee members present at last night's meeting included Major Hawks, Harry Pickard, Jules Markel, Fay F. Shirley, B. L. Chittenden, Harry D. Edwards, Virgil Marrs, and Riley Huber, Mrs. Flagg, Mrs. F. E. Coulter, Mrs. Jack Fisher, Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. Pickard, Mrs. Chittenden, Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Elliott.

Floyd W. Arnold, president of the organization, conceived the idea many years ago to distribute new merchandise at lower prices than possible for a retail store through the ordinary channels of distribution. A plan was evolved whereby the organization manufactures as much of its merchandise as possible which is distributed through the retail stores operated by the company.

An Appeal to Christian Citizenship

By Pearl Kendall Hess

In a ringing appeal to the Christian voters of California to awaken and assist repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, Mrs. F. I. Johnson addressed an enthusiastic mass meeting at the First M. E. church, Los Angeles Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Johnson is past president of the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions, dean of the Chautauque Summer School of Foreign Missions and vice president of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement. She is touring the nation in the interest of state and national prohibition.

Vigorously attacking both major parties she says she is frequently asked if there is a move to organize a Woman's party. Her reply is always "no, but we are desperately tired of men's parties."

In tracing the trend of political events the past year she said in part: "The United States is in a log jam. The key to the situation is not the repeal of the prohibition amendment nor any other prohibitory law. The key is economics and unless the congress and various state legislatures get into rapid and sensible action, the younger men and women between 20 and 30 years of age will get into the breach over night and there will be a revolution. The young people are goaded to desperation. Of the 60,000 out of college last year, fewer than one tenth of them have work. Next June 80,000 more will graduate. The psychology of youth is at the breaking point."

One shudders to think of the leached political despotism which has its clutches on every governmental, federal, state, county and municipal. This hand is covered with gold—extracted from the people. It has been revealed that in some of our cities munitions from justice is being sold in a well organized justice market. Just one item is "house robbery cleared for $10." The recent scenes in the Chicago conventions have persuaded us that the call has sounded for the womanhood and girlhood of the land to rise up and smite this monster of lawlessness which lives in the camp of the wets and always has.

Forced into Action
"We are being forced into action by political traitors, by gangsters, by those who have sworn to enforce the law, by blatant newspaper writers who should be returned to their own country—after which they are trying to pattern our own. "Too many thieves are appointed and elected to catch thieves. It takes a Seabury to see and bury crooked dealings in high places. It takes a Kincaid to catch the Capons. "This is a time that calls for sane and incisive thinking. Our country must be rid of outlaw gangsters whether found in a governor's chair or on a rum runner's yacht; on a judge's bench or in a state attorney's office, in a university presidency or in a mayor's beer parade. "New York state with its world famous city is largely ruled by the vote of alien minds to whom liberty means license and law means evasion. A social state of lawlessness prevails—that is nothing other than anarchy. "We will again see the beer mug on every corner as in the old saloon days if this wet gang, and gang it is, comes into power. "Both parties are committed to states rights. They are cunning and selfish. At this time the ostensible move is for legalized alcoholic liquor. The real issue is to substitute state rights for federal control. If you heard what we hear in Washington you would know we face division and that means rum rule as they have it in Europe. Are we stone blind? History in the making is not a surface matter. The history in the making at both political conventions in Chicago was a travesty."

Foe to Childhood
"The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is the most powerful foe to childhood in the world. I wish you all to know

"There are 15,000,000 aliens in the United States who have not even tried to be naturalized. Suppose if we were kind enough to take them out of the United States, not by 50's and 100's but by the thousands of 7,500,000 of our own people out of work. "The time is at hand for group thinking. It is necessary to deal sharply with any state or individual defiant of the Constitution and the laws of the land. Hear what Corey Ford said in Vanity Fair: I call upon all people who think to violate the eighteenth amendment, etc.—Such as he should be tried for treason. Any member of the navy or any soldier who would say this would be shot on the spot. Where are we that have let this thing continue until it has undermined the power of the people to think? "The shepherd dog is the meekest of canines until goaded to the limit. It then becomes the fiercest. We women are that shepherd dog just now. Again: Down with the Benedict Arnolds! On with an aggressive campaign against returning this blight legal by to our country. "These maligners of youth must be told where to stop. They told me that on the Pacific coast all the youths are drinking. After getting the facts I find not over 1-10th of one per cent are drinking in the colleges and universities. They told us they were all drinking themselves to death in Boston. We wondered when, for we did not see any long line of hearse. The head of the Boston schools say the youth of Boston is not drinking. We are not blind or deaf or dumb. We know when the truth is told. The superintendent of public education of Nebraska said recently that if we were given two more generations of dry children the nation would be perpetually sober. "The colleges are not all wet as reported. The members of the faculty of Columbia University are fighting Nicholas Murray Butler. It was said Yale was preponderately wet. Of a faculty of 500 only six were willing to come out in favor of repeal. The newspapers have said Yale was sold for repeal. "Are we going to sit by and sell our children to these brewers who are cobras? You people in California had better let your grapes rot than for this to go through."

CANTANDO CLUB SOL GONZALEZ CONCERT TO BE GIVEN PROGRAM GIVEN TONIGHT FOR B. & P. W.

Announcement of the program to be presented tonight when Cantando club appears in recital in Santa Ana High school auditorium, has met with special interest on the part of season ticket holders, according to the comments received by the club director, Leon Eklies.

Part of this interest is engendered by the nature of the program selected for presentation by the club, a program combining classical sacred, operatic and popular numbers, and part by the choice of a talented Los Angeles soprano, Miss Zaruhl Elmanson, as guest artist. Another feature which has aroused general interest, is the inclusion on the program, of a popular Santa Ana violinist, Miss Georgia Walton who will play a violin obligato to the concluding number, "Ring Out Wild Bees" by Chopin.

The concert is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock with Rachmaninoff's "Glorious Forever." It will include one solo number by a Cantando member in addition to Miss Elmanson's solo groups. This will be Mantovani's "The Day Grows Old," sung by Hugh Runnes.

Business and Professional Women last night enjoyed a very fine Spanish program, arranged for their dinner meeting in Ketter's blue room, by Sol Gonzales, member of the Breakfast club. This featured a string quartet composed of Sol Gonzales, Ricardo Duran, Esteban Rodriguez and Antonio Pargas, with Miss Ruth Frothingham as accompanist; Senorita Enriqueta Armendariz, soloist, and Faustina Lucero, dancer.

Preliminary to the program were business details introduced by Mrs. Adelaide Cochran, president. These included the adoption of a revision to the constitution making the annual election on the final meeting in April; introduction of many guests, and several announcements. Anaheim club issued an invitation to a dinner meeting on March 9 in Anaheim I. O. O. F. hall, where Dr. Sonia Poushkaroff will tell of her experiences as a Russian refugee. The Orange County council will meet on March 1, and the Southern District board meeting will be held March 2, places to be announced later.

Mrs. Blanche Brown and Miss Mary Smart had charge of the evening program, Mrs. Brown introducing Sol Gonzales, who in turn presented the members of his musical group.

Quartet numbers were spirited and lovely, and included in addition to the work of Spanish composers, a beautiful waltz, "Sonador," by a Mexican composer, fellow countryman to the artists, with the exception of the leader, Mr. Gonzales, who is American born. Other ensemble numbers were "Por Fin Toros," a fox trot; "La Campesita," an Argentine tango; "La Borrachita," and "Cielito Lindo."

The soprano solo in "Cielito Lindo" was sung by Senorita Armendariz. Clear and true, her voice has a charming, flute like quality that was apparent in all her solo numbers, "Clavel Sevillano," "Amapola," "El Relicario," and the finales of the program. Miss Frothingham told the romantic story of "El Relicario," adding to the interest of that particular song.

Clubwomen were delighted to see the graceful dancing of Faustina Lucero (Mrs. Raymond Cowman) who appeared on a program for the first time in several years. Her rendition of a jota, "Madre del Cordero," and the Mexican National dance, "Jarabe Tapatio," showed that she retains that spirit, skill and grace that made her a favorite entertainer on the professional stage before her marriage.

COAST ASSOCIATION WILL MEET TONIGHT

Several matters of importance will be discussed at a meeting of the Orange County Coast association, at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Aquarium cafe at San Clemente.

A report will be made by the committee on legislation, headed by George W. Bush. Action will be taken on the naming of the highway along the coastline. The recommendation made some months ago for a non-partisan county organization on tax matters will be reviewed. Discussion of park areas along the coast will take place. Steps will be considered for no-action zones along the highway down the Orange county coast and efforts will be made to have a preliminary report from the special committee on industries which was appointed a few months ago.

SOLICITATIONS BAN SUGGESTED BY AUTHORITIES

The city council last night discussed a proposed ordinance designed to regulate solicitations for religious organizations, but no definite action was taken.

Some members of the council are of the opinion that there should be no limit placed on solicitations of this nature, while others expressed themselves as being in favor of solicitations as long as they were made by local concerns.

City Attorney Clyde Downing pointed out that it would be hard to keep solicitors from working in Santa Ana if their organization was legitimate in every way and stated that it would be next to impossible to pass an ordinance which placed restrictions on some religious groups and not others. The law that is passed, he said, would have to affect all solicitors for all religious organizations.

Councilmen To Attend Tax Meet

Members of the Santa Ana city council expect to attend an all-day meeting of the California Taxpayers' association, to be held in the Transportation building, Los Angeles Thursday.

An invitation to the members of the council was received last night. The meeting is being held for the purpose of discussing bills before the state legislature at the present time and to discuss ways and means of balancing the state budget.

Council Notes

On recommendation of Street Commissioner A. C. Hasenjaeger, the request for the opening of an alley between Main and Sycamore streets in the 1500 and 1600 block, was denied by the city council last night. There is a chance, however, it was pointed out that the council would favor such an action in the spring, Hasenjaeger said.

For street purposes, the city last night was granted a deed to two lots, one in the 1100 block and the other in the 1200 block on West Washington avenue. It was ordered received. Those making the deed were Grace Stewart Smith, Margaret D. Smith, R. Carson Smith and Dorothy C. Smith.

Action on the application of E. F. Wickert, to remodel a garage at 601 South Sycamore, so that an auto repair shop will be made from it, was continued by the city planning commission for one week.

FOUL PLAY IS SUSPECTED IN DISAPPEARANCE

Riverside and Orange county authorities combined today in a search for Fred Lyle, 45, of 1825 South Parton street, who is reported to have mysteriously disappeared from a shack at Norco, while visiting there with a man named Stringer.

First report of the disappearance, which took place on the morning of February 18, was received here today, although the Riverside sheriff's office knew about it in a few hours and called out Boy Scouts there in an effort to locate the man, whom they believed, may have wandered off from the small Riverside town.

Although an exhaustive search has been made near Norco, no trace of Lyle has ever been found. The Riverside authorities reported this morning to the Santa Ana police department.

Lyle lived alone at the Santa Ana address. He had been there for some time, according to the police. It is a small place on the back of a lot.

When he left there, Lyle is supposed to have had a large sum of money on his person, and possibly in a San Bernardino bank, and because of this, suspicion of foul play entered the case immediately. His disappearance here was reported to the police by D. E. Lyons, of 1915 South Parton street.

Ask Endorsement Of Legislation

A letter to the city council received last night, asked that board to endorse Assembly bill No. 1563, which is being sponsored by the Southern California Yachting Association and which is designed for developing motor boat and yachting facilities along the Pacific coast. The council took no definite action, referring the matter to the finance committee.

PHOTOGRAPHS ORDINANCE IS GIVEN READING

First reading of a city ordinance which is expected of better regulate the soliciting for photographs throughout Santa Ana was given by the Santa Ana city council last night.

The ordinance was drawn after a number of complaints had been lodged with the council by local photographers concerning "fly-by-night" studios which came in just prior to Christmas, solicited the business and then "folded up," according to Edward Cochems, local photographer who was one of those to appear before the council.

The new ordinance is aimed to give more protection to the local business man and to better regulate soliciting in general.

EXPECT MORE SUPPORT FOR GAS TAX BILL

J. L. McBride, who is to become city engineer on March 1, spoke before the council last night on further development of plans for passing the California League of Municipalities gas tax bill.

He said that the Auto Club of Southern California, which has a bill of its own in the assembly was now ready to compromise and that a meeting is being held in San Francisco today at which time the Auto club is expected to endorse a bill which will perhaps be very similar to the one the cities are fighting for.

McBride attended a gas tax meeting in Los Angeles yesterday at which time Hollis Thompson, leader for the cities' bill declared that cities in the northern part of the state were "standing pat" for the cities' bill, McBride reported.

JURIST SCORES RADIO, MOVIES, NEWSPAPERS

Law enforcement officers have little chance to cope with the increasing crime wave, according to Superior Judge James L. Allen, so long as the radio, motion pictures and magazines and daily newspapers make heroes of criminals.

Judge Allen said yesterday that practically every criminal in court today is under 30 years of age and a large part of them are less than 25 years old.

"We can expect crime to continue," he said, "for as long as the government permits the portrayal of crime over the radio, the broadcasting of murder trials and all-wise private detectives to tell their adventures in radio programs."

"Youths head these stories, and see crime films at an impressionable age and are filled with the glamour of crime. They do not realize that crime does not pay. All they see is the adventure and lure of easy money."

Parents who allow their boys to run wild at night also were scored by the jurist who sits on the criminal bench in Orange county superior court. These boys, he said, are permitted to roam the streets at night, they see crime pictures, hear broadcasts of great crimes and read crime stories in the magazines. It is just another step for them to emulate some of their criminal heroes.

"For so long as amusement sources continue to laud the criminal and the newspapers rehash vivid crimes of other days and play up present day crimes, just so long will the law enforcement agencies of the land find it increasingly difficult to stem the rising tide of crime that is sweeping over the nation."

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 21.—(UP)—Sentiment for business dictatorship in the United States, to pull order out of chaos, is gaining ground daily.

No less a person than General Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, has now come out openly for the plan of a business dictator. Even prominent socialists see merit in the idea.

The point is, thinkers say, the trouble is not so much one of faults of capitalism, or failure of democracy to rule intelligently, as it is of inability of the American political system to do anything constructive.

General Atterbury has gone so far as to recommend, in practically so many words, a business governing board for the United States. Big business men, as well as the little fellows, are becoming more and more disgusted with the manner in which politicians have handled things.

Given the chance, they say, American business brains, clothed with real authority, would straighten matters out in a jiffy. I believe they would.

Take Chicago, for example. Teachers in that city, second largest in the United States, have been working without pay for eight months, walking to work through blizzards, because they lacked fare, and collapsing in school rooms for want of food.

Does anyone believe a business administration of Chicago, instead of the old political spoils and graft system, would have permitted such a condition, let alone be the cause of it? Hardly. Business men are too smart to permit anything of that sort.

Does anyone believe that a politician of the type of "Kingfish" Huey Long could fit into any constructive business? Hardly. His forte seems to be an ability to use an endless chain of words endlessly, and say nothing at the same time.

The Huey Longs, the Big Bill Thompsons, the Jimmy Walkers, and all the rest, who have dominated the United States politically all these years, without making a single contribution economically, socially, or in any other way, to the welfare of the country, are the ones on whom a large part of the burden of present conditions may be placed.

The times seem ripe for changes. Everywhere, young men and women are urged to take a national interest in public affairs. Universities are training young people for responsibilities of public service.

There must be more business in government, and less government in business. The politically-minded having failed on the job, why not give the business-minded a chance to take the reins of government and see what they can do.

As this is being written, Will Durant, philosopher, economist, and author, is traveling through California, urging that very thing. Paul Blanchard, socialist, and chairman city affairs committee of New York City, is endorsing a modified program of business rule for the United States.

Men like General Atterbury are neither wild nor crazy nor radical. They are responsible business men, big business men. What they say, should have some weight. Even some members of Congress have been won over to the idea of business control for the country. Attempt has been made already to give President Roosevelt virtual dictatorship powers. Here's one who hopes for success along that line.

REASONS FOR CITRUS MEN'S TROUBLES TOLD

Assessed valuation of citrus lands must be very materially reduced and unless public expenditures are decreased in direct proportion, other property, notably city property, must bear an increased burden of taxation, according to an article prepared by Dr. D. D. Waynick, chairman of the Inter-county Farm Bureau stabilization committee, which was read over KREG yesterday by R. D. Flaherty, Farm Bureau secretary.

Discussing the stabilization of the Valencia industry, Dr. Waynick pointed out that during 1932, growers of citrus fruits in the county, although $15,000,000 in new money was returned here for the crop, did not receive an income on the capital invested which justifies the values which have been placed on and new growing citrus fruits.

Two reasons why the industry which was prosperous for many years suddenly was in serious trouble, are that the buying power of the people, due largely to continued unemployment, has fallen off to about 60 per cent and that the production of citrus crops has been increasing with bumper crops two years in succession, he said.

Makes Comparison

He pointed out that if automobile manufacturers insisted on making as many cars as they did in 1929 they would be worth next to nothing because of the superabundance of cars. "Executives who would follow a course like this would be fit candidates for an insane asylum," he declared.

This is the same thing which has been going on in the citrus industry, he said.

Because Southern California has practically a monopoly on the growing of oranges, the problem of adjusting supply to demand should be simple, he said.

Stabilization of the industry has not been accomplished because growers have long been in the habit of picking and shipping all the crop and because the number of growers attempting to stabilize the market is not sufficient, the speaker said.

Dr. Waynick traced the history of the attempts made by the Farm Bureau and affiliated committees to stabilize the citrus industry. Intensive study of the problem has resulted in a four-point statement of policy, which includes: the elimination of "low grade" fruits as such from all channels of trade; the adequate regulation of the distribution of the total crop; the full recognition of the vital importance of increasing the demand for citrus fruits through every recognized agency and method, and the maintenance of full confidence in the product marketed on the part of the consumer.

Work for Control

He defined "low grade" fruits as those not meeting the requirements of federal and state standardization acts, or which cannot be marketed at a price above all costs of production and marketing or fruit, whose presence in the market will depress the price of fruits of better grade.

"Conferences between heads of the marketing organizations are already under way and it is the intention of the enlarged Farm Bureau committee to follow through until the problem of a reasonable control of shipments of the 1933 Valencia crop is solved," he declared.

"There is everything to be gained and nothing to be lost by such a program and with the co-operation of all growers, bankers, business men, professional men, and other members of the community a workable program can and will be developed and we intend to see that it is put into operation and continued so in so far as we possibly can."

WASHINGTON

WAR

There will be a real war shortly in the Far East. What you have seen so far is unofficial child's play to what appears to be officially coming. At least that is the confidential information our topmost officials have received from their diplomatic eyes in the Orient. It has led them to be more apprehensive than they care to admit.

A declaration of war by Japan on China is supposed to be the next step following Japanese withdrawal from the League of Nations. That will mean Russia can hardly stay out.

Such a declaration has been avoided thus far because of the restraining influence of the League of Nations. All the fighting has come under the head of good clean fun. That has handicapped the Japanese. It has kept them from blockading the Chinese ports.

The Chinese open door could be shut tight in event of an official declaration of war. China could be readily subdued by being cut off from her sea source of munitions. Her commerce would be disrupted.

We could complain but that is about all.

The Chinese will put up a better scrap against the Japanese than you think. They might even win if the Japs blunder. That seems most improbable to our military men. They give the victory in the coming battle to the Japanese largely because of superior artillery and tanks.

The Chinese have good rifles, machine guns and more men. They have mustered between 200,000 and 300,000 in the Jehol area. Included are the 19th Route army (which worked so well at Shanghai last year) and their crack 80th and 51st. They have the additional advantage of being defenders.

They will need it when the superior Japanese equipment swings into action.

DEBTS

The only skulduggery there has been so far on the British debt is the muzzling of such British politicians as Neville Chamberlain.

That was the purpose behind Premier MacDonald's announcement in Parliament that the British would come here to discuss their war debts with an open mind.

Chamberlain had been rattling around England making speeches which were privately distasteful to President-elect Roosevelt. Chamberlain kept screaming there would be no "dealing" and no "trading" here. His activities are supposed to have been mentioned to the British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay during his Warm Springs conference, before he went to London.

Sir Ronald is credited with having induced MacDonald to put British publicity on a little better plane.

KINGFISH

The Huey Long investigation in Louisiana will get nowhere. It was a nice show while it lasted but it means nothing. If Long's man Overton were kicked out of the Senate Long's Governor would only appoint Overton or another Long man to the vacancy. But it will not even get that far.

The Senate investigating committee can hardly report before adjournment March 4. If it does no action will be taken. Democrats will see to that. They will be in control of the next Senate. Nobody thinks they will care to act then unless they decide to keep Huey busy at home for a while.

STICKERS

There is something intoxicating in the Washington atmosphere for politicians. They hate to leave even when defeated.

Many of the Hoover cabinet will keep offices and homes here. State Secretary Stimson will retain his estate "Woodley," probably because few of the incoming Democrats have enough money to buy it. Under Secretary Castle is holding several New York offers in abeyance, hoping to get an opening which will keep him in Washington.

Most of the Lame Duck Congressmen are looking for lobbying and other jobs which will keep them on the scene of national activities.

DAWES

Stories are going around the country that General Dawes evaded the Double Liability feature of the state banking laws by taking all the good assets of his old bank into the new one. These yarns have now spread as far west as Oakland, California. The latest query comes from there.

There is no truth in the idea. Dawes took all the good assets of his old bank into the new one but he is subject to double liability in both banks and so are all the stockholders in the old and new setups.

PICK-UP

Senator Carter Glass is a teetotaler. If one night some months ago, he called his friend Dr. Cary Grayson out of bed. He urged that the doctor come at once although it necessitated a 150 mile automobile trip.

When the doctor arrived before daybreak Glass anxiously explained his symptoms. The doctor pondered. Finally he mixed some medicine from a bottle and the Senator gulped it down. Five minutes later he felt fine and asked to know the name of the elixir. Grayson was non-committal.

To this day, the Senator does not know it was whiskey and sugar and water.

NOTES

Pressure keeps up on Congress for revaluation of the dollar. Senator Barkley received 1209 letters from one Kentucky district urging such action. . . . Nobody in Congress knows who is behind the move, although it is well organized because the letters bear a marked similarity. . . . Garner held the Navy bill up until last in order to have the pressure of impending adjournment help to keep the boys from fighting too much. . . . The State Department was not as enthused about the MacDonald speech as some of the editorial writers.

On analysis they found it promised nothing more than the British note which promised nothing except a discussion of economic matters. . . . Some time back an eastern Congressman arose and said on the floor of the House: "I am not going to stand here and let anyone throw EPIGRAPH at me." . . . Unquestionably an epigraph would have been shattered if it ever hit him on the head.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

GOVERNORS

The March 6 conference between the new President and the State Governors is rated here as a big time plan by those close to Mr. Roosevelt. There will be complete freedom of give and take on both sides. Discussion on a wide scale is expected.

The meeting will not change the date set for the special session of Congress. But agreements and ideas developed are likely to be of importance to the nation.

HULL

Why should the Senator from Tennessee hesitate over accepting the offer of becoming Secretary of State? If he declines it will be for reasons puzzling to most party workers.

He trusts Roosevelt. He distrusts the routine politicians. Having wrecked the ideals he holds for the State Department's policies would put the price of eminence too high. And he likes the Senate.

In no event will he take the Treasury job.

GLASS

If Senator Glass goes to Treasury it will be, one might say, on the wings of a Byrd. The 75-year-old fighter has admiration and affection for the ex-Governor. He would like to see Byrd get his seat in the Senate.

Steak as an alternate, should Glass decline, is given no weight by New Yorkers. Swager, Shirley of Kentucky or Howard Bruce of Maryland are rated as actual possibilities—as assistants, or more.

REVENUE

Daniel C. Roper, certain to be well-placed is given the inside track by President-to-be advisers for headship of Internal Revenue. Robert Gore's selection, as reported, is not credited.

SMITH

If Al Smith is offered anything by the incoming President all signs will have failed. Nor is he likely to accept the New York Mayor nomination. There are excellent reasons for believing the Brown Derby will not play a political role in the future—outside of press notices.

CURRY

Another political fadeout is likely to be John Curry of Tammany Hall. He has strong influences working for him. He will have stronger forces in opposition. The new Administration is most unlikely to play ball with him.

McKEE

The gift of silence is being employed satisfactorily by the man most probable as the next Collector of the Port of New York—Joseph V. McKee. Neither as Director of the Federal Budget nor as United States District Attorney have the guessers placed him correctly.

CURLEY

Hope springs eternal in Mayor Curley's breast. Something good at F. D. R.'s hands is counted upon as is the dawn. But it's odds-on no offer has been made to date.

FARLEY

Washington and the Postmaster Generalship are likely to be but stepping-stones for big Jim Farley. He wants the Governor's chair for New York State. When Governor Lehman steps up Farley is in line to reach the goal—of his present ambitions.

COX

For auld lang syne James M. Cox has been estimated as a probability for placing in the new scheme of things. This seems totally unfounded. A recently suf-

HOME LOAN BANKS START WORK SOON

With enabling legislation already passed by the state legislature, officials of the Federal Home Loan bank expect to start active operations within two weeks, according to information received by George L. Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who attended a bank meeting in Los Angeles Saturday.

At the luncheon meeting, held in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce building, Franklin W. Fort, chairman of the board of directors of the Home Loan Banks, was the speaker.

Fort stressed the importance of the fact that the money loaned by the banks will go directly into the hands of the people who need it the most. The money loaned on property can be used for improving the property or paying taxes, he said.

He said the board of directors was contemplating making loans for construction in the near future, although no definite action along this line has been taken.

Editor, Santa Ana Register:

This is to the citizen in a gray suit, of about middle age, who on Wednesday, Feb. 15th at about 10:30 a. m., met a young respectable looking man who asked him for the price of a meal, and here is the answer you gave him as I overheard it:

(I should say not, why in H— don't you go over to the Salvation Army and work for it like the others do, what in H— do you think I am paying taxes for?)

Now Mr. Taxpayer, don't you think you could have given the man a decent answer as you would like some one else to give you, were conditions reversed? You could have told him in a decent way that he could earn a meal at the Salvation Army as the next man told him to do.

I happened to see the young man approach a man who came along and he asked him where the Salvation Army home was, and I saw him go directly there so evidently he was really hungry. Now wouldn't it have made you feel better had you given him a kindly answer instead of shouting at him in an insulting way as if he were a mad dog or a criminal? You saw where he went, pile salted away somewhere where it will do nobody any good, even yourself. Stop and think, that same young man and others made it possible for you to have your pile, because they had to spend theirs for the necessities of life, and the little they were able to save was taken away from them through unemployment, when you and your kind, who had it all, refused to spend any of yours and brought on the depression.

Stop and think, all unemployed are not bums as some of you birds seem to think. There are as respectable, educated and cultured people among them as you can ever hope to be. They may be down but not to be. It is people like you who turn them against society, law and order. It is people like you who turn them to communism and other isms. Next time any one asks you for the price of a meal or a bed, if you can't give him an intelligent answer, don't give him any at all and walk away from him. Don't heap insult to injury. I am only sorry that I didn't find out your name, but you are probably one of the respected citizens of this town and perhaps a big pile in one of the churches. I don't want to cast any reflection on the churches, if there are such men as you connected with the churches it is just too bad. Think of the unemployed as fellow human beings that are in unfortunate circumstances through no fault of their own, and not as undesirable bums. They come from all walks of life, business, trades, professions and all are trying to get on in the world and live. They all have paid their share of taxes as well as you, and they are at the present time paying the biggest tax of all, unemployment, and humiliation. Treat them right and don't turn them into revolutionists, or you may have conditions reversed.

Yours truly,

JOSEPH S. NAGEL,

Not unemployed but working 10 hours a day to pay my taxes.

RUTH

Her friends are very certain that Ruth Bryan Owen will have a top-hole appointment within the next thirty days. But the lady herself has at this writing not a glimmer of what it is to be. She certainly is not worrying.

MOLEY

What will happen to Prof. Raymond Moley? Insiders are taking bets. Roosevelt likes to have him around. Howe and Farley do not. And that's a setup worth watching.

POLICIES

Are international discussions early in the Administration the part of wisdom? Vigorous dissent is voiced here by men close to the President-elect. Their program would be: iron out national problems; concentrate on Governor's Conference; see foreigners later. Apparently they lose.

DEPRESSION

A well-known fertilizer is packed in excellent burlap sacks. These have always been returned for reuse until recently. A representative was sent South to check. He reported finding whole communities of Negroes using the bags for clothing. The theorizing of the burlaps is said to have been quite casual.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mona Townsend, beautiful young widow, inherits her husband's millions with the provision that she must not rewed. Her marriage, arranged by her husband's lawyer, who was Mona's employer, was a strange affair, leaving her free at the end of a year to become her husband's widow. Mona, in love with her husband's nephew, Barry Townsend, thought Barry was lost to her.

She employs Lottie Carr, a fashion model, as her secretary-companion and they set out for South America, where Barry and Steve Saccarelli are partners in a diamond mine. Mona's brother, Bud, works at the mine. Mona hopes for a reconciliation with Barry. She feels Barry is entitled to a share of his uncle's fortune and wants to find a way to arrange this legally.

Learning that Barry and Steve are on vacation at Holiday Island, the girls leave their boat at Port of Spain to find them. Barry and Steve are cordial but their greeting lacks warmth. Mona wishes to share the marriage with Barry and ask for explanations and she cannot make them.

Barry remains there for several days. Mona, worried, decides to return home. One night when she goes to the beach and finds Barry there, she tells him she loves him but when he asks her to marry him Mona refuses. She feels she must find a way to give him a share of his uncle's fortune. They quarrel.

Mona and Lottie are about to depart for home when Steve is poisoned by a fer de lance, deadly snake of the West Indies.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVI

The native's cry struck terror in both girls' hearts. "Boss Steve hurt by fer-de-lance." The deadly snake of the West Indies! If Steve were a victim of the fer-de-lance he would die!

Lottie groaned and hurried forward. Mona close behind. The car had reached the entrance now. Barry was issuing orders and Bud was helping the native boys lift off Steve.

With quick, sharp directions from Miss Gracie they carried Steve into the house and laid him gently on a lounge. The terrified natives were hustled away. Jossie came running, bringing hot water.

Outside the door Mona and Lottie waited, too frightened to speak. Suddenly Lottie said, "The Miranda! Dr. Allen is aboard with serum. They must be close to Granada now! Oh, Mona, if we could get some of that serum perhaps it would save!" She glanced at her watch. "I'm going to try, Mona!"

The maid passed with a basin of water. Lottie ran into the room where Barry was.

"Barry!" she cried. "Quick! If we can get anti-toxin from the snake institute won't that save him?" Quickly she explained her plan. Dr. Allen was aboard the Miranda bringing serum from the snake institute to Martinique. If he could be reached she knew he would help them.

A light of incredulous joy spread over Barry's face as Lottie went on talking. The Miranda was a scant 15 minutes away by plane. If there was anti-toxin aboard they must send for it.

He called Bud and explained. Steve's life was at stake. Miss Gracie, adept in such matters, would know what to do until they could return.

"Let me go with you, Bud," begged Lottie. "I'm going!"

"Don't you think you'd better stay here, Lottie in case Steve wants you?"

"I'll need someone to help me!" interposed Miss Gracie.

"Do they mean in case Steve wants her or in case Steve dies?" Mona thought to herself. Instantly her mind was made up. "I'll go with Barry and Bud," she announced. "I know Dr. Allen. You stay here, here, Lottie. That's the best way."

Miss Gracie, kneeling by the couch, was watching Steve's wounded leg. Lottie, watching, thought she would faint as she saw the women pick up a sharp kitchen knife and, with sharp, merciless jabs, cut criss-cross into the wounded flesh. Steve lay with his eyes closed. He barely winced at the knife cuts. His face seemed incredibly pale.

Mona ran to the entrance where Bud and Barry had arrived with the car. The automobile coughed, choked and then went hurtling forward. Out to the yard, down through the tunnel of trees to the airport. It was a distance of half a mile yet almost instantly Lottie heard the roar of the engine and saw the Ladybird rise in the air, hesitate and then go roaring on, its nose in the direction of Granada.

Lottie came back to the porch. Jossie knelt there sobbing, holding a basin of water and watching Miss Gracie's capable hands.

"Find some disinfectant, Lottie," Miss Gracie ordered sharply. Upstairs the girl flew. Disinfectant? Where would it be? Her fingers fumbled about the medicine shelf. Ah, this was it. This would do!

Hurrying downstairs Lottie stood awestruck and fascinated while Miss Gracie risked her own life drawing the poison from the wound with her lips, rinsing her mouth with every application. This she did again and again. Would she die too? For Lottie had given up hope. Leaning against the frame of the door, Lottie watched, praying for the first time in a long, long while.

"That should do until they get here," Miss Gracie was saying, struggling to her feet and looking down at the wound.

The minutes ticked away. Miss Gracie returned, stepping quickly for so bulky a woman. Lottie noticed that she was careful in her movements. That was a good sign. That meant she believed he would live!

"I think I hear the Ladybird," Miss Gracie said suddenly. At that very moment there was a cry outside. The maids came clustering about the door in excitement, old Mari bringing up the rear.

"Boss Barry coming!" Florence was saying eagerly.

There was no doubt about it. The droning hum, the increasing roar was the Ladybird. It came hurtling through the air, closer and closer.

Landing on the golf course, Lottie expected, Miss Gracie was saying, "That's closer. One more time won't hurt it."

"One more time!" Lottie repeated. The song she and Steve had sung as they danced together went that way. "One more time! Just one more time!"

One more time to see Steve alive and well was all that she wanted of heaven or of earth.

The Ladybird settled abruptly into a circle of trees and was lost to view. Presently the stream of native boys began once again to pour out of the tunnel, gesticulating wildly. The car followed at top speed.

Mona sat in the car. Bud was hanging on the running board and at the wheel this time was Barry. There was a stranger with them. Young Dr. Allen! That must mean that they had brought the serum. Lottie grew weakly limp and quietly dropped to the veranda. She had for the first time in her life, fainted away.

"We've got it," she heard a voice cry as everything became a blur.

There were rustlings, stirrings. At length Lottie opened her eyes. She was in her own room lying on the bed and Mona was bending anxiously over her. Dr. Allen, smiling, stood at the other side of the bed.

But the doctor was here when he should be with Steve! That was Lottie's first thought. Almost immediately she noticed that it was dark outside. She must have lain in a faint for hours.

Her lips moved but the words did not come.

"Do you want Steve?" Mona asked. "Oh, he's all right now. We brought the doctor with us, you know. Reached Granada just in time. The boat was blowing its last whistle. The serum was there too and it worked perfectly."

"Steve will be beating you at golf in a few weeks," Dr. Allen promised.

"You're sure he's all right?"

"Of course. I'm going to stay around though until he's able to turn handsprings."

"Steve is in his own room," Mona added. "The boys carried him up where he'd be more comfortable. When he's a little less drowsy he'll want to talk to you."

"I'll be down for dinner," Lottie promised.

"You certainly will not, young woman," Dr. Allen said. "We'll have it sent to you." He stood in the door a moment, offering casual advice, and then went to Steve's room.

"Lottie!" cried Mona suddenly. The two girls clung together.

"You saved him for me," Lottie cried softly, wiping her eyes. "You and Barry. It looks as though Steve and I will have to do something for you two."

But Mona's thoughts raced back to that 15 minutes in the plane when everything except Steve's life seemed unimportant. Those 15 minutes had taught their lesson.

She looked at Lottie with shining eyes. "Perhaps you have done it already," she said.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE'S VALEDICTORY

A suggestion that some sort of the war debt payments due to the United States be set aside to stabilize currencies of the world was made in President Hoover's last public address before he relinquished office to Franklin D. Roosevelt. He is shown here speaking before the National Republican Club in New York City. At the left is Mrs. George A. Wyeth and on the right Oscar W. Ehrhorn, president of the club; Mrs. Hoover and Gen. James G. Harbord.

CITRUS MEN CONSIDERING BILLS FOR STABILIZATION NOW BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Endorsement of either of the three methods suggested in the state legislature for stabilization of the citrus industry has not been given by the Orange County Farm Bureau as yet according to R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the organization.

While the Orange county group has not yet officially acted it has been indicated that growers of the district are inclined to look with favor on the proposal of compulsory pro-rating of the crop.

It is felt that some changes should be made in the present bill before the legislature seeking compulsory pro-rating, leaders say. Representatives of the citrus industry in Orange county, Flaherty said, feel that members of the proposed pro-rating commission should be appointed for a term of six years and that the bill should include provisions for terminating the pro-rating plan should the growers and distributors find that it is not a satisfactory solution to their problem.

At a meeting held in Los Angeles recently at which Farm Bureau and citrus organizations of Riverside, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Ventura and Orange counties were represented, the three types of legislation proposed as a solution to the industry's difficulties were discussed. Orange county was represented at this meeting by A. J. McFadden, Dr. D. D. Wainick and Flaherty.

Compulsory Marketing

Dr. E. A. Stokdyke, associate professor of agricultural economics at the University of California, was the speaker. Three general types of legislation are now before the state legislature seeking adoption, he said.

One proposal before the solons, he said, is that of compulsory cooperative marketing. This measure, if successful, would require all producers to join some cooperative marketing organization. Stokdyke said that this type of legislation has twice been declared unconstitutional in Canada and attorneys in California have given opinions that it would also be declared unconstitutional here as the basic laws of Canada and the United States are similar.

The trend in the United States, Stokdyke said, is toward compulsion. Proponents of the plan point to the fact that in California lawyers are required to be members of the Bar Association before they are permitted to practice their profession. The law governing tuberculosis free areas for dairy cattle and the requirement that ranches in these areas comply with inspection of their stock was cited as were city zoning laws. These laws have been held constitutional and are considered as compulsory legislation, it was pointed out.

The second plan being advocated is that of making all cooperative marketing organizations public utilities. This proposal is new, according to Flaherty, and has received no local consideration.

The third method or compulsory pro-rating is the type of legislation most favored in the southern area. This method probably would be declared constitutional under the Bandini oil case where it was ruled constitutional to require compulsory pro-rating on the theory that unlimited shipments resulted in economic waste and destroyed relative rights of owners. A similar decision was given by the United States supreme court in an Oklahoma oil case.

The matter of stabilizing the citrus industry was discussed at the annual meeting of the California Farm Bureau Federation and directors of that organization were instructed to make a study of compulsory pro-rating problems. Bills covering the three types of relief are now before the legislature and meetings, such as the one last week in Los Angeles, are being held for the purpose of securing the reaction of growers and to hear any suggested changes in the proposed laws.

While the Farm Bureau here has taken no action officially on the matter it is felt that compulsory pro-rating is a desirable legislative measure and its success or failure is something that only experience can verify, it was said. The compulsory cooperative marketing bill has met opposition here but the pro-rating plan is generally favored on the grounds that it would leave the grower free to determine his marketing affiliation, Flaherty declared.

Mr. Felker's brother-in-law is pastor of the Nazarene church, occupied the Midway City pulpit at the Sunday evening service. Mr. Chandler, of Brea, gave several solo numbers.

FIRE FIGHTERS HEAR TALK BY SAFETY LEADER

Representatives of 10 Orange county cities came together last night when the Orange County Firemen's association, and the Women's Auxiliary of the organization, met in the Newport Beach Community church as guests of the beach city fire fighters.

Howard Miller, safety supervisor for the Southern California Edison company, appeared as the chief speaker on the program, addressing the audience on "Fire Fighting with High Tension Electrical Equipment." The gist of Miller's talk was, that no one should "monkey" with live electric wires, because electricity reacts so differently under seemingly identical situations that even the men in their company who have had long years of experience in handling the most highly energized lines are taught to never take unnecessary chances.

Exemplifying the value of education in handling electrical equipment, Miller said that but two of their men lost their lives in 1931 as against a total of 20 in 1927. During a quiz, following his talk, the Newport Beach fire chief, Frank Crocker, spoke at length on the various experiences that his men had had in working around electric wires.

John Osterman, president of the Orange County Forestry Protective association spoke briefly, telling something of the history of that body, stating that they have grown in seven years from a small group of men with axes and shovels to a well organized group now with three well equipped fire trucks. Leo Hofstetter, representing the junior auxiliary of this body gave a short talk. Seven reels of pictures of forest scenes were shown. Dick Fricke and Ed Zube gave several musical numbers.

D. W. Woodward, of Laguna Beach, president of the Orange county association, presided at the gathering.

Mrs. Homer McCormick of Santa Ana, presided at the auxiliary assembly. The auxiliary reorganized, electing Mrs. E. Gabrino of Laguna Beach to head the organization for the year 1933.

Woodward reported four new units, Midway City, Westminster, La Habra, and Yorba Linda, coming into the county association during the past year.

Cities represented at last night's meeting were, Costa Mesa, Fullerton, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, Santa Ana, San Clemente, Tustin, Yorba Linda, and Newport Beach. Chief of the Brawley department, L. Fuller, formerly of Orange county, was a visitor at the meeting.

PLAN REPORT ON TAXATION STUDY

With the view of formulating an extensive and comprehensive report in the near future, the Orange County Farm Bureau tax committee, headed by Pelton Browning, is making an exhaustive study of legislation introduced at the last session of the state legislature, it was learned today.

At the present time the committee is paying particular attention to the proposed Riley bill which would place public utilities back on the county tax roll and provides for a gross income, sales and receipts tax on all forms of incomes.

GRATEFUL

If John Gentry, 6, of Kansas City, Mo., walks again he will owe gratitude to a physician and a white pig. John's leg was lacerated when he slid under a street car. When the wound failed to heal the physician grafted the pink skin of a young pig to John's leg. Because of the large amount of skin needed it could not have been taken from a human. Here is John smiling his gratitude after the operation.

ARRAIGN MAN ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to do great bodily harm, George D. O'Grady, 38, arrested Sunday at his mother's home at Perris, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison yesterday.

His preliminary examination was set for February 27, at 9 a. m. and bail of $1500 was demanded. He went back to jail to await the hearing.

O'Grady is charged with tossing a brick bat through a window at 708 Garfield street, where his wife had taken refuge. She was not injured. The brick bat broke the glass pane.

He claims his wife went away with another man and he admits he threw the brick, sheriff's officers, who made the arrest, declared.

LEGISLATORS TO SPEAK FOR KIWANIS CLUB

The final program of a series dealing with civic and governmental affairs will be presented to members and guests of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club tomorrow noon in Ketter's cafe when state legislators address the meeting, it was announced today.

Problems confronting the state legislature and other public governmental bodies will be discussed in brief talks to be given by Senator Nels T. Edwards, of Orange; Assemblyman Ted Craig of Brea and Assemblyman James B. Utt, of Santa Ana.

Gus Allen, well known citrus grower and prominent civil leader, will be in charge of the program, which includes an address on the life of George Washington, to be delivered by the Rev. Albert Kelly, minister of the United Presbyterian church who is a new member of the club.

Music for the meeting will be furnished by the "Agony" double quartet, according to an announcement in the club bulletin.

Birthdays of J. P. Baumgartner, Sam Hurwitz, Lyle Mitchell, Loren Moore, F. P. Nickey, Jim Hutt and Dr. Harry Huffman, president, will be honored at the meeting. Members whose birthdays come during February will occupy a special birthday table.

GOVERNMENT COST REDUCTION ASKED

A resolution advocating a reduction in state expenditures and expressing a willingness to accept a reduction in the poultry budget with other expenditures, was adopted by directors of the poultry department of the state Farm Bureau, representing the seven southern counties, at a regional meeting in Van Nuys Friday.

W. C. Childers of Santa Ana, president of the state Farm Bureau poultry department, attended the meeting, accompanied by Frank Jones of Santa Ana, F. R. Hein of Huntington Beach, Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory and R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

Legislative matters affecting the poultry industry were discussed by Edson Abel, attorney for the California Farm Bureau Federation.

Newly Wedded Couple Spending Honeymoon In Mountains

Snowy mountain vistas of the Southland are exerting their lure as honeymoon land on Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Hogland, whose marriage on Wednesday, February 15, in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. E. E. Jamieson, 3115 South Main street, was followed by their early departure on honeymoon wanderings.

The beautiful ceremony uniting Miss Ethel Marie Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Hughes, and Thomas H. Hogland, of Milpitas, New Mex., was conducted at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Samuel Edgar, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church. Baskets filled with snapdragons, stocks, carnations and other delicate buds flowers of early spring, were arranged against a background of palms and ferns for the ceremony.

Miss Hughes, lovely in white satin and lace and with an embroidered veil caught to her hair with orange blossoms, carried a bride bouquet of white sweet peas and maidenhair fern. She wore Mr. Hogland's gift of a pearl necklace.

Miss Esther L. Jamieson, maid of honor, was gowned in ashes of roses crepe with which she carried Tallman roses combined with blue sweet peas and maidenhair. Ted Brown of this city, assisted Mr. Hogland as best man. Preceding the rites was the song, "Day of Golden Promise," (Hamblen) sung by Freda Moesser Barger to her own accompaniment. Mrs. Barger also played Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the processional to which the bride party entered.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom, who gave the reception which followed the ceremony, members of the bride party and immediate relatives were seated at a table arranged as a wedding scene with a complete bride party worked out with tiny dolls. Nut cups were in wedding bell form, with sprays of lilies of the valley. A wedding cake decorated with pink roses, orange blossoms and white doves, was cut by the bride and added to the menu of pink and white ice cream, cake and punch. This was served on decorated trays to other guests.

Guests included in addition to the pastor, the Rev. Samuel Edgar and Mrs. Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Hughes and Mrs. E. E. Jamieson, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jamieson, Mr. and Mrs. John Jansma, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Waites, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Day Nursery Board Plans Party for Thursday

Activities of the week seem to center on benefit card parties, with the one planned by the Ebell Day Nursery board expected to draw a large group of interested guests to the clubhouse on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There is an urgent need for patronage at the present time, board members point out.

Nothing has been neglected in plans for the event, for there will be diversion for all, including contract and auction bridge. For those who do not wish to play cards, there will be jigsaw puzzles to work. Prizes and refreshments will conclude the afternoon.

Board members will be hostesses for the afternoon. They include Mrs. Lena G. Hewett, chairman; Mrs. Roy Peterson, Mrs. J. E. Liebig, Mrs. E. F. Muesen, Mrs. O. H. Umberham, Mrs. Rowland P. Yeagle, Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. W. D. Ranney and Mrs. C. V. Newman.

Silver Wedding Proves Pleasant Incentive For Celebrations

Memories of their wedding day 25 years ago, were enhanced for Mr. and Mrs. Coates W. Leamer, 502 East Chestnut street, by the celebration of the silver anniversary, planned by their relatives and friends.

On Sunday, the actual anniversary date, Mr. and Mrs. Leamer were complimented at a dinner given in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Theo. F. Naill, 828 West Myrtle street. This was a happy surprise awaiting the honor guests upon their return from morning church services, and Mr. and Mrs. Naill had arranged for a few old friends to be present with greetings, before the entire party sought the Leamer home for an informal reception engineered by friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Naill made her table charming with flowers, and served a delicious anniversary dinner with covers laid for the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Leamer, Robert, Ralph and Shirley Naill of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Grover of this city; Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Dickinson and Mrs. Hattie McVicar, Los Angeles, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Naill.

For the enjoyable "at home" which followed, the Leamer home was gay with flowers sent as tribute from countless friends. There were quantities of greetings cards to be opened and examined, for old friends and neighbors in the former home of the Leamers, Onaga, Kans., had been notified of the significance of the date, and had sent greetings. Other more substantial expressions of interest were seen in the handsome gifts in silver.

There was a constant stream of guests calling to offer good wishes, and these were served iced fruit punch and dainty little cakes decorated with silver candies. To each guest was presented a cluster of sweet peas. Mrs. Edith Thatcher, Miss Mabel Whiting, Mrs. Allie Husted, Mrs. W. E. Foote and Mrs. Naill presided in the dining room.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was when Mrs. Foote read a poem which she had written especially for the occasion, and titled "Twenty-five Years." On Saturday evening the Congressional Sunday school class taught by J. A. Cranston, of which Mr. and Mrs. Leamer are members, staged a merry surprise on them in their home, the members spending a delightful evening complete with anniversary wishes and refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Leamer were married on February 26, 1908, in Onaga, Kans., and have lived in Santa Ana approximately 15 years.

Washington Theme Has Effective Use at Bridge Party

Miss Lorene Shipe made effective use of a George Washington decorative theme recently when she entertained with an evening bridge party in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Shipe, 633 North Van Ness avenue.

Appropriate sallies were distributed for bridge play with Miss Ruth Danford of Alhambra and Miss Betty Niedergall winning prizes for scoring first and second high. Miss Laura Dean of Anaheim was consoled.

For the refreshment hour, Miss Shipe centered card tables with bouquets of red and white carnations, mingled with blue cornflowers. Nut cups were of log design, decorated with cherries. Mrs. Shipe assisted in serving.

Those sharing the pleasant affair with Miss Shipe were the Messies Dorothy Hall and Laura Dean, Anaheim; Ann McCormick, Florence; Alice and Marian Wolfe, Fullerton; Dorothy Danford and Ruth Danford, Alhambra; Lillian McDonald, Betty Niedergall, Mary Louise Niedergall and Thelma Shipe of Santa Ana.

Twin Luncheon Courtesy Extended by Two Hostesses

The month of February lent itself ideally to plans conceived by Mrs. Robert Mize and Mrs. Harry Westover for a double entertainment in which the two joined as hostesses. Second- and concluding event of the two bridge luncheons tendered was the affair taking place yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Robert Mize, 602 South Ross street, scene, also, of the earlier festivity. The hostesses took this graceful means of extending their hospitality to more than 60 mutual friends. The anniversaries of St. Valentine and Washington were allowed to dictate the party's theme in each instance, red and white appointments prevailing at the first luncheon on February 13, and a note of blue being introduced into the same scheme for yesterday's function.

At the most recent entertainment the patriotic theme expressed itself repeatedly through the American flag, employed in reproduction and design in various of the party's features. Salad and dessert courses of the luncheon menu, were appropriately shaped, and tallies and score cards bore the same design. Guests were grouped at small tables cheerily decked with red candles, red cloths over white, and flowering almond contrasted with white and blue hyacinths.

The card tournament which ensued brought a reward to the afternoon's winner, Mrs. Orlyn Robertson.

Others bidden to the function by Mrs. Westover and Mrs. Mize were Mesdames Richard Couden, Franklin West, Hugh Lowe, Rex Kennedy, William Stauffer, Clarence Nisson, Fred Newcomb Jr., Ralph Mitchell, Harvey Gardner, Loyal K. King, George K. Scovell, Milburn Harvey, James B. Tucker, Orlyn Robertson, Herbert Alteman, William Wright, C. E. Paul, Elsie Spruance, Charles Swanner, Jack Fisher, Harry Huffman, Ray Lambert, DeWitt Dudley, Robert Wade, Catharine Marble, Jack Colburn, Baxter Jauvenot, Douglas Paterson, John Ball, Robert Bartholomew, all of this city; Mrs. Herbert M. Bergen of Fullerton and Mrs. L. Allen Wallace of Glendale, formerly of this city.

At the earlier event bridge honors were captured by Mrs. James L. Allen, highest of the 30 women comprising the afternoon's contestants.

Appointments were similar in general plan, differing only in the restriction of the colors to two, red and white, and in the symbol employed, in this instance the heart instead of the flag. Flowering almond and white hyacinths were combined in the decorations of that day.

Gathered in response to the joint invitations were Mesdames George S. Briggs, Howard Timmons, Charles Kelley, Ray Chandler, Otto Huan, Lewis Moulton, Edwin Nelson, J. S. Smart, J. E. Paul, A. W. Rutan, James L. Allen, Roy Hall, Harry Duckett, George Smith, F. E. Farnsworth, O. H. Erge, Charles Walker, P. R. Reynolds, Theo Wimbler, J. F. Burke, B. H. Sharpless, R. G. Tut-hill, Ralph Mosher, Tarver Montgomery, Mulford Willis, W. B. Williams, Nelson Edwards, Joe Burke, J. C. Metzgar, Nat Neff, Miss Louise Montgomery and Miss Gertrude Montgomery.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM
Luncheon
Scotch broth
Large slice boiled mutton
Small baked potato
Vegetable "bow" salad
Pot of clear tea
Calory total—385.
Scotch broth is a simple broth with pearl barley. The boiled mutton comes from the soup and it may be eaten with pickles or with mustard or capers. The small baked potato is eaten to the last shred of skin. The vegetable salad is dressed with mineral oil French dressing and may be indulged in to one's heart's content.

Various inquiries have come to me asking for a quick diet to get those exuberant curves duly roped in before Easter and the new Spring suit. For those readers I am briefly outlining a diet that will reduce them from one to 3 pounds a week if adhered to strictly. It is absolutely safe, too.

Breakfast
2 slices rye bread, thin, and toasted dry.
1 teaspoon butter for toast
1 cup black coffee, no sugar or cream.

Luncheon
2 lean lamb chops or 2 pats of pan-broiled chopped steak, or similar lean meat.
Large serving raw vegetable salad with mineral oil French dressing.

Dinner
Large cup clear broth
Same meat and salad allowance as for luncheon.
Two glasses of water immediately on arising; hot or cold.
8 glasses between meals throughout the day.
Buttermilk between meals for first three days to allay hunger.

A 20-minute hot bath at night, cold shower in morning. Gentle cathartic three times a week.
Exercise in moderation. Walking preferably.
No deviating from diet as set forth. Definite loss of weight noted after sixth day.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Scotch Broth
3 pounds shoulder of mutton
1 clove of garlic
1 large onion, minced
Small bunch parsley
6 peppercorns
1 bay leaf
Handful of celery tops
3 quarts water
1 cup pearl barley
4 tablespoons instant tapioca
Salt and pepper

Peel away every speck of the parchment-like skin, wash the meat and bring to a boil. Throw away this water, rinse the meat again, and put on to cook in 3 quarts of water and everything else but the pearl barley and tapioca. Six hours slow cooking is none too much.

Strain the broth and cool so that the fat may be removed. Put back on fire with barley, season when it boils, cover and simmer for 2 hours. Add water if the broth boils away much and stir one hour left in the tapioca. Strain until it begins to soften, then cook for the remaining hour.

Have you ever wondered how the soup you eat in a restaurant happens to be so smooth and have so much body? You can get the same result by using tapioca in your soup.

This Scotch Broth has a calory value of 100 per cupful.
Wednesday: Meat Pie, as it is made in my house.
ANN MEREDITH.

Guests Enjoy Sharing Birthday Observance With F. P. Nickey

Recurrence of his birthday anniversary late the past week, brought an especially happy experience to F. P. Nickey, one of Santa Ana's veteran business men, who was complimented by Mrs. Nickey at a birthday dinner party and bridge in their pleasant home, 519 Bush street.

Colorful flowers decking the home, represented the interest felt by friends in the anniversary, many of them taking the opportunity to "say it with flowers" in expressing good wishes. There were beautiful greetings cards also, which every one enjoyed examining.

For the dinner, Mrs. Nickey used the clear golden yellow so eloquent of the Orient, in combination with an Oriental theme expressed in handsome banquet cloth of Chinese linen and elaborate workmanship; quaint place cards of Asiatic elephant design; flickering candles and quantities of deep yellow blossoms. The serving of the delicious menu was accomplished by Miss Virginia Spencer as an affectionate tribute to her grandfather.

Covers were placed for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Nickey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowler of Ventura; Mrs. Genevieve Spencer of Eagle Rock; Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Wallace, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. George Raymer and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Trago.

Tables were arranged for bridge as a sequel to dinner, and the attractive prizes selected by Mrs. Nickey, were awarded Mr. and Mrs. Bowler, holders of high score, and Dr. and Mrs. Wallace, second high.

J. C. Bachelors Score Gratifying Success With Annual Ball

Surpassing all former Bachelor balls both in brilliancy and in attendance, the eighth annual festivity of the Junior College Brotherhood of Bachelors, given Saturday night at the Coconut Grove of Breakers hotel, Long Beach, was accorded the praise it deserved by dinner guests and those who attended the dance which followed.

Bachelors had the dining room reserved for the dinner event to which only members and their individual guests were admitted. Place cards of red and black suede attractively engraved with the names of the guests, later served as dance programs when the party adjourned to the ballroom at 9 o'clock.

Tiny rolling pins were presented Harry Clayton and Bill Campbell in recognition of their services as past grand exalted Bachelors. Musical features of the dinner hour included piano solos by Duncan Hamois who also accompanied Dean Benton in a song group. Short talks were made by 'Gene Hall and Bill Campbell.

Almost 200 couples assembled for the semi-formal ball and danced to excellent music furnished by Bill Hegar's 11-piece orchestra of Anaheim. Between dances they were served punch by Hideo Higashi, Alex Clark and Byron Stoddard.

Much of the success of the function was attributed to the efforts of Jimmy Goodfellow, general chairman, and his assistants, Bill Campbell, Paul Hansen, Bruce Handy, Ed Mindar, Bob Wilson, and others.

Patrons and patronesses attending the affair were Dean and Mrs. McKee Flak, Mrs. Robert Northcross, Miss Agnes Todd Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Bruff and Sheldon Hayden, adviser.

Dinner guests of the Bachelors were the Messies Adair, Ellis, Grace Peterson, Ruth Dolmer, Frances Bowman, Kathleen Hawes, Dorothy Quiggle, Betty Walker, Ruth Owens, Dorothy Hatch, Louise Norton, Mary Nau, Mabel Miller, Edna Hall, Saragrace Frampton, Phyllis Cole, Betty Hawk, Iona de Renner, Florence Turner, Joy McPhee, Jean Silver, Corinne Hayden, Emma Wettlin, Erma Seamans, Catherine Ferne Sumner, Florence Campbell, Evelyn Smith, Shirley Binford, and Mabel Pruitt. HEAVY SEAT SALE FOR 'CAVALCADE'

The demand for tickets to the showing of "Calvacade" which comes to the Fox West Coast Theater Thursday for a two day engagement is particularly heavy. No road show attraction of recent months has created the interest shown in this Noel Coward picture of the generation.

"Calvacade" answers every requirement of distinct and novel entertainment with a dramatic power that will be remembered for weeks to come. It's poignant beauty, subtle handling and thrilling punch scenes have made it a household word throughout the nation. The so called "hard boiled" critics of New York used every adjective known to the English language in their praise of "Calvacade" and its cast of players.

It is now in its fourth week at Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood and all indications point to a solid year's run in New York where it is showing at the Gaiety Theater.

Consolidated Growers Receive $573,853 For Fruit

927 CARS SENT EAST IN YEAR: POWELL SPEAKS

The secretary called attention to the pro rate agreement and to the satisfactory results from the three weeks in which it had been in effect last summer. He said he hoped it would be in effect next year as it was the salvation of the growers.

Receives Painting From Artist After Letter of Inquiry

ORANGE, Feb. 21.—Miss Claudine Minter, Orange Union High school student, has a newly acquired possession, a three-color reproduction of one of Benjamin C. Brown's paintings, sent to her by the artist in response to a letter she had written him.

One of Mr. Brown's paintings is hung in the high school library. Miss Minter and other students entered into a discussion as to whether the painting depicted a vineyard or a desert scene. After looking up his address in "Who's Who," Miss Minter wrote to the artist to ask him about the picture.

"His reply in part stated, 'The picture you mention represents a scene on the edge of a vineyard, with almond-tinted vines in the foreground. The trees are young eucalyptus against evergreen live oaks, and the time is late afternoon. The picture was painted near Pasadena.'

The reproduction sent to the high school by Mr. Brown, is a reproduction of a painting now owned in Hollywood, the artist explained in his letter.

EXPERIENCES IN AFRICA TOLD AT CLUB SESSION

ORANGE, Feb. 21.—Dr. Daniel Davenport, noted scientist, was the speaker at the meeting of the Men's club at Trinity Episcopal church Monday. Dr. Davenport is now in Los Angeles preparing for a coming expedition to the west coast of Africa, this country having been the topic of his talk last night.

The speaker was introduced by D. C. Drake and the president of the organization, Alfred Higgins, presided. Dr. Davenport gave the reason that causes scientists to engage in the hunting and capture of wild animals, as the financial return as members of scientific expeditions do not receive large salaries and they are glad to supplement their salaries in this way, he said.

Dr. Davenport was a member of the party opening the tomb of King Tut and he declared that the story that all of the members of that group had died was a great fallacy. He then told of his trip in the Belgian Congo which had lasted five and a half years. Arriving at the west coast, the speaker said, sand from the Sahara desert was blown over the ship when it was 90 miles at sea. Mississippi river steam boats ply the Congo, the speaker said. At one time this river had been believed to be unnavigable. The jungle should not be so called, Dr. Davenport said, as in Africa it is called bush, which is not the veldt, the latter being the home of the African lion, which is not found in the bush.

Blacks must be used in African expeditions, said the speaker, as they alone know the dangers of the country. Dr. Davenport told of fish that climb trees and breathe with their tails, of spitting cobras, of black magic, and of insects which he declared are the real masters of the jungle.

Driver ants which drive everything before them and which consume everything in their path and which can only be stopped by fire, were described as a real menace of the bush.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS TALK BY DISTRICT HEAD

ORANGE, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Albert Launer, of Fullerton, president of the Southern District Federation of Women's clubs, was the speaker at the meeting of the Orange Woman's club, Monday, when she urged great thought and care in the proposed reduction of school funds.

"Some persons declare, 'What was good enough for my father, is good enough for me,' said Mrs. Launer 'but this statement does not meet the problem adequately as times are changing and young people of today need a different and more extensive training to meet their problems. Schools are saving $14 where other state departments are saving $1.

"Increasing leisure, gained from the inventions of machinery to do work, is requiring training in the use of leisure time. Let children learn to live, to understand each other as a foundation for civic, national and international understanding."

Vocal solos were sung by Mrs. W. J. Sutherland, who was accompanied by Mrs. Jess Coe and numbers on two pianos were played by Mrs. Coe and Mrs. Christine Lambert. The latter was welcomed to the club after several months' absence in the east.

The tea table was especially attractive with a patriotic motif. The center piece, arranged by Mrs. B. R. Douglass, duplicated a woodland scene with two quail standing beside a quiet lake fringed with rocks and flowers. Baskets of corn flowers, ranunculus and white sweet peas decorated the table. Mrs. Gwendolyn Thompson headed

TAXES, WILLS DISCUSSED BY WOMAN'S CLUB

ORANGE, Feb. 21.—With Mrs. B. R. Douglass, Mrs. Fred Loesch, Mrs. Gwendolyn Thompson and Mrs. Charles Bowyer as hostesses, members of the Orange Woman's club shared an interesting program arranged for Education day, which was observed by the group yesterday. Mrs. Earl Crawford presided.

Open forums were conducted. Mrs. J. T. McInnes, program chairman, directing the formation of four groups, members of which held 10 minute discussions. Mrs. Jack Clayton conducted a forum on "Wills and Inheritances" and later the leader gave a summary of the discussion, pointing out that the making of a will was a personal matter but one which should be discussed by husband and wife in the same way life insurance or provision for the future is discussed. Mrs. Clayton said many states have laws which are not so fair to women as laws of California.

Mrs. Donald Smiley headed the group discussing "The Tax Dollar and its Distribution." In this group the reduction of school taxes and the consolidation of rural school districts were discussed. Mrs. Smiley spoke of her sales tax, members of the group pointing out that state leaders believed that this was a partial solution for present state financial problems. She gave an interesting account of how the tax dollar of residents of the city is distributed and said that 56 cents of this dollar goes to the general fund, 12 cents to the outfall sewer, 10 cents to the library, 1 cent to the storm drain, two cents to the

"Chesterfields Satisfy"

WHEN smokers keep buying the same cigarette day after day . . . it's a pretty good sign that they're getting what they want . . . mildness, better taste — a smoke that's always the same.

So we're going right on making Chesterfields just as we always have . . . selecting choice, ripe tobaccos . . . ageing them . . . blending and cross-blending them . . . making them into cigarettes in the most scientific ways that are known.

As long as we do these things we know that smokers will continue to say, "They Satisfy." For that's what people are saying about Chesterfields.

If you smoke, why not find out about them? A package or two will tell you the whole story.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The great, big hopper floated round and then it swooped down to the ground. "I need a stronger push," it said, "to travel very far."

"I'm weak at pushing, now and then. I've just come down to try again. Now, kindly don't be frightened, lads. Just stay right where you are."

"Oh my," said Scouty, "we're all right. Don't worry. We will all sit tight. It's very comfy on your back and this is heaps of fun."

"Please, this time, hop up over the trees. I'll bet you can do that with ease." "All right," replied the hopper. "It's no sooner said than done."

low. That was the best jump you have made. Where are we going now?"

Another cried, "What do we care? Wherever it is, we'll soon be there. I know we're safe and sound, because the fiddler told me so."

"Of course you're safe," the fiddler cried. "Don't worry! Just enjoy this ride. In just a moment we will find a place you'll think is grand."

"I'll tell the hopper when to drop. Outside the wondrous place we'll stop, and then you will agree with me, that it's a real strange land."

One Tiny shortly shouted, "Oh, the trees, right now, are far be-

low. That was the best jump you have made. Where are we going now?"

"It's just below us, on the ground." And then they landed, safe and sound. The Tinies were surprised to see a magnifying glass.

The fiddler said, "That is the door to Big Bug Land, and what is more, you Tinies must jump through it, if you want to see the sights."

Then Scouty cried, "Sure, we'll jump through. That really is not hard to do." And, when they did, the fiddler cried, "You're real brave Tinymites."

H. B. To Ask $10,000 For Triangle Park As P. O. Site

SET LOCATION OF BEACH CAMP NEXT MEETING

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 21.—The meeting of the city council Monday night was well attended, with spirited discussions on the proposed beach camp ground and the submission of a post office site by the city.

The city submitted Triangle park as a site for the new federal $72,000 post office, but put a price on it of $10,000. The city will also have a beach camp ground, but the exact location and the price will be decided at the next meeting of the council.

It was pointed out by Mayor Elson G. Conrad and other speakers that the city had offered Triangle park, a tract bounded by Fifth street, Main street, Sixth street and Magnolia avenue, a beautifully improved part of the civic center tract, home of the Horseshoe clubhouse and court, as a location, under the impression that Uncle Sam would not put out any money for the site. "Now the situation is changed," the mayor said. "There are sites offered at Orange avenue and Main at three corners of the street intersection, either of which sites should be acceptable."

Citizens who spoke on the subject were D. Roy White, opposing the selling of the city's park and pointing out that the sale of the municipal was a sale of the city's soul; and C. H. Ward, who charged Councilman Stevens he had advocated before he was a member of the council, had been a bad deal for the city.

C. H. Howard urged the Triangle park site for the post office at the price of $10,000. C. G. Ward opposed it. E. T. Mollie opposed the Triangle park site.

T. H. Thibert, president of the chamber of commerce, speaking for that body and the Business Men's association and the American Legion, urged the establishment of a beach park.

Lyndon Wells opposed the beach park being located west of First street, stating that as a property owner he did not relish the beach camp in front of his property.

He favored the beach camp but asked that it be located east of First street.

There were four applications for supervisor of the beach camp. They were George Jacobs and wife; J. E. McManus, T. C. Vincent and C. E. Dowdy.

LICENSE FEES DISCUSSED BY CITY COUNCIL

PLACENTIA, Feb. 21.—Consideration of maintaining efficient city government while reducing taxes occupied the attention of Placentia city councilmen Monday night.

Desiring to reduce the budget and to lower taxes and to lower and equalize the license fees were chief topics. William B. Wade, representing Albert Launer, city attorney, reported on work accomplished by his office in tabulating the rates of business and professional licenses in cities of Orange county, and left with the councilmen copies that they may consider the variations, and try to arrive at a fair base rate.

This variation was pronounced. Some cities charge $6 and others $24 a year for professional licenses, while the variation on palmistry and such things varies from $100 a year to $50 a day. Some cities charge one dollar a quarter for a barber chair, while others charge three dollars a quarter.

Wade pointed out that Launer had warned against a city trying to isolate itself with prohibitive licensing and said the licensing of trucks serving merchants with perishable goods, such as bread, may work a hardship on the consumer.

Stuart Strathman, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and J. D. McDonald, chairman of the merchants' division, suggested that in revising license rates councilmen might consider to protect local manufacturers of perishables, and charge concerns trucking into the city higher rates of perishables. Attorney Wade and the councilmen contended that would be showing partiality and that the councilmen could charge only on wheel basis for trucking, as a tax on using roads.

EARLY DAYS OF CUT IN STATE CHURCH CITED EXPENSES DUE. IN FULLERTON CHAMBER TOLD

FULLERTON, Feb. 21.—A service observing the 45th anniversary of the First Presbyterian church of Fullerton was held Sunday, the pastor, the Rev. Graham Hunter, speaking on the organization of the church.

Miss Suzanne C. Dean spoke of the earnest leadership of the late A. McDermont, first elder of the church. Mrs. McDermont, now of Riverside, and a charter member, was in attendance. She is the mother of Mrs. Grace Ord, of Fullerton.

The First Presbyterian church was organized in February, 1888, by the Rev. F. D. Seward, synodical missionary; the Rev. Robert Strong, of Los Angeles Presbyterian, and the Rev. George A. Irwin, pastor of the Anaheim Presbyterian church, the following being received into membership: Thos. F. Williams and Mrs. Williams, A. McDermont and Mrs. McDermont, S. S. Wood, Mrs. Lizzie Wood, Robt. Parker, Mrs. M. Schutte. A few weeks later, Mrs. R. J. Barrows and Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Drake were received.

The roll of ministers is, George A. Irwin, 1889; J. N. Elliott to 1891; Hiram Hill to 1896; J. T. Hopkins to 1898; James Stone to 1899; Theophilus Beazley, pastor of the Anaheim church for periods in 1900 and also in 1902; Eno S. Baker in 1901 and 1902; T. G. McLeod to 1904; J. T. Hopkins to 1911; E. J. Statton, 1911 to 1924; and Graham C. Hunter, 1924 to the present.

"For the churches as a whole," Dr. Hunter said, "the tremendous needs of the world at the present time, the need of economic justice, of brotherliness rather than class hate and bitterness, of civic cleanliness, of amity towards those of other races and nations, and the deep instinctive needs of individuals, are both a caution and a call."

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 21.—With 50 members present the chamber of commerce heard Assemblyman Ted Craig and a telephone executive, D. C. Wright, of Los Angeles, Monday.

He said that when the legislature gets back to work next week, there is going to be a swinging of the axe and some high priced jobs are going to be lopped off.

Craig talked about taxes, declaring they were too high and that state expenses were too high and that he proposed to help reduce both. Wright told of the complaints on telephone service that come in to "Miss Wrong Number" and how the patrons could help.

Ted Craig had to "throw a monkey wrench" in the machinery when he followed Wright by stating that he had tried to call his wife from his office in Sacramento. He said that the telephone girl told him there was no such place as Brea in the state. Craig knew better. He lived there and got elected from Brea, he informed her.

She answered that Brea was the place where they got skeletons of the sabre-toothed tigers for the museums. Craig said he finally won the argument and got his wife after an hour spent in fierce argument. Later he got the bill, which he said was "fierce" than the argument.

Brea-Olinda High Head to Talk On School Measures

BREA, Feb. 21.—The calendar of activities at the Congregational church begins with choir practice this evening. On Wednesday afternoon the meeting of the Missionary society will be held in the church, Mrs. R. W. Spensley, president.

At 8 o'clock a called meeting of teachers of the Sunday school will be held at the church, with Mrs. A. J. Barnes, Sunday school superintendent, in charge. The Fellowship dinner will be served at 6:15 o'clock, with a committee from the church guild in charge of the tables.

At the mid-week meeting which follows the dinner the discussion will be led by C. O. Harvey, principal of the Brea-Olinda Union High school, speaking on current legislation pertaining to schools, a matter on which he declares there is much misinformation.

PLACENTIA, Feb. 21.—Consideration of maintaining efficient city government while reducing taxes occupied the attention of Placentia city councilmen Monday night.

Desiring to reduce the budget and to lower taxes and to lower and equalize the license fees were chief topics. William B. Wade, representing Albert Launer, city attorney, reported on work accomplished by his office in tabulating the rates of business and professional licenses in cities of Orange county, and left with the councilmen copies that they may consider the variations, and try to arrive at a fair base rate.

This variation was pronounced. Some cities charge $6 and others $24 a year for professional licenses, while the variation on palmistry and such things varies from $100 a year to $50 a day. Some cities charge one dollar a quarter for a barber chair, while others charge three dollars a quarter.

Wade pointed out that Launer had warned against a city trying to isolate itself with prohibitive licensing and said the licensing of trucks serving merchants with perishable goods, such as bread, may work a hardship on the consumer.

Stuart Strathman, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and J. D. McDonald, chairman of the merchants' division, suggested that in revising license rates councilmen might consider to protect local manufacturers of perishables, and charge concerns trucking into the city higher rates of perishables. Attorney Wade and the councilmen contended that would be showing partiality and that the councilmen could charge only on wheel basis for trucking, as a tax on using roads.

MORE EXPENSE FOR CITIZENS

One of the matters which the legislators of California must provide for is the convention pursuant to the resolution passed by Congress for the repeal of the 18th amendment. This convention will have upon it the obligation of ratifying or failing to ratify this repeal of the 18th amendment.

This method marks the first time that Congress has proposed the convention program rather than having the legislatures pass upon the proposed amendment to the Constitution. It has been done by this method because the "wets" do not believe they would be able to repeal the 18th amendment in this country through the route by which all amendments to our Constitution have been adopted, including the 18th. That method has been by the approval of the legislatures of three-fourths of the states. There is the provision providing for the amendment to the Constitution, that any amendment may be ratified either by the legislatures of the states, or conventions called for that purpose. There is no provision in the Constitution as to how the delegates shall be elected to the convention; how many delegates the convention shall consist of, and there has been a difference in Congress as to whether Congress should define the character, nature and methods for the selection of these conventions, or whether it should be done by the several states.

However, if it is left as it is now, each state will adopt its own method. It may be very expensive. It might require a separate election of delegates, and then the pay of the delegates, and the expenses of the conventions in all of the 48 states would run into millions of dollars.

Under the usual form, there is practically no expense, as the legislatures would pass upon it in the natural course of their regular duties. There is one way that the legislature could save this unnecessary expense, and as far as California is concerned, we cannot see any serious objection to it. The legislature might by law create this convention to be composed of the state senators and the members of the assembly. This would save the election, and yet it would have as members of the convention men who are responsible to their constituents.

With the vote that has been had in this state, there would probably be a ratification of the repeal of the 18th amendment. But this would probably be true if a convention were called for that purpose, and we went through a campaign in each county upon that issue. In the creation of this convention by this suggested means, the big expense would be saved.

Of course we can well see that it would have to be done by unanimous action and agreement, because any member of the legislature probably could question its validity in the court, on the ground that an undue and unusual and unaccepted responsibility was placed upon him by law that was not being placed upon all citizens. Other than this, we believe there could be very little legal objection. But if they should all assume the responsibility and create such a convention, it would save the expense.

MORATORIUM EQUALITY

Moratoriums are being urged for the farmers, who are unable to meet the payment of heavy mortgages on their farms. There are many who believe that legislation, as far as legislation can be Constitutional, should be passed to the end of the protection of the farmer. There are many others who believe that if this should be done for the farmers, it should be done for all debtors. In fact, if it is done for the farmers, it would almost in justice have to be done for some other debtors, because in many cases the mortgagor is himself both a debtor and a creditor.

Very fortunately, this issue has not been a serious one in Orange county, for our financial institutions have very wisely adopted a policy of not foreclosing, where they receive the cooperation of the owner in carrying on up to the limit of his ability. The institutions which are doing this are serving the community in a very wonderful way, and in these cases such action justifies the use of R. F. C. money, which is virtually the taxpayers' money, for it is being used to keep things steady, and to hold things up.

This necessitates the collections by the financial institutions which are doing this and which in turn are themselves debtors, of amounts owed them, wherever it is possible to make such collections without foreclosure and manifest injustice. While we have known of cases of private individuals foreclosing and taking over property, we have heard no complaint of financial institutions in our city or county making a practice of doing this thing. This makes for stability. It makes for confidence.

We would not make strictures upon those institutions which possibly have been forced to foreclose, or attempt to foreclose in order to save themselves, as probably some of our financial institutions have been doing with Middle West farmers. But our county, and pretty much the Southland here, as far as we know, has been free from it.

In some places people are going through liquidation, and it is natural to look toward a moratorium. And it is very possible that a moratorium, which would apply to all debts, if it were possible to make it legal, would be helpful. In some cases the provisions for protecting a contract, and also protecting a man in his private property, has been met by giving certain powers to the court in adjustment. It furnishes the legislators food for considerable thought.

POLITICS IN SOUTH AFRICA

South Africa is far away. But South Africa, like the nearer nations, is looking for a way out of her difficulties. The South African union is a bi-racial country. The lines between the English and the Dutch are very sharply drawn. The memories of the Boer war are still vivid, and political campaigns are waged on issues not unlike those which followed the Civil War in our own country.

For a number of years the Dutch party has been in control, and has been able to run the government without much opposition. But a break appears to have come. A certain Judge Roos, one of the Dutch party, has resigned from the bench of the High court, and has entered politics. It is his purpose to break up the racial divisions which have existed, and which have subordinated the more important questions before the country. He hopes for a regrouping of parties, so that the racial issue will disappear. He has held conferences with Jans Smuts, himself a Dutchman, but leader of the English group, with the expectation that a coalition will effect a change.

These men are certainly deserving of success, but they face a very difficult task. A new election is to be held early next year, at which it is hoped there may be a complete realignment of parties. In the light of our own experience in this country, there is little to be hoped for. For a number of years, a group of public-spirited men and women in this country, headed by Professor John Dewey, has been seeking the same end. But the South is still solid, notwithstanding the break in the Hoover election of 1928. The West went solidly for the Democratic party at the last election. Whether that is to be permanent remains to be seen. It may be the beginning of a new era. If it should be so, it would contradict every former experience in our political life.

It is unfortunate that party solidarity survives long after the conditions which brought it about have ceased to exist. It has been so in the United States. It is quite likely to continue to be the case in South Africa. Nevertheless, it is interesting to observe the new movement in the far away country on the other side of the world, and on the other side of the equator.

Doctors and Specialists

New York Times

Economists are not the only profession interested in the Law of Diminishing Returns. The doctors and the college presidents to name only two gainful occupations, are taking note of its effects. But it does not always have the same name. Sometimes it is the swing of the pendulum. Sometimes people say that what has gone up must come down. In this sense all life is subject to the principle of Diminishing Returns.

The doctors have been giving too much thought to the problem of the specialist versus the general practitioner. The annual Congress on Medical Education opened at Chicago the other day with a full-length debate on the menace of the ill-trained "specialist." But a cheerful view was taken by one speaker who argued that it won't be long now before every medical specialty will have reached its saturation point. "This may result in the development of a type of general practitioner better trained than the graduate of today."

When medical practice has split up into a mass of narrow specialties, the time will obviously have come for a liaison officer or coordinator. He will be the general practitioner; once more illustrating the Law of Diminishing Returns.

Puts Money Into Circulation

San Francisco Chronicle

Preparations now going forward in Washington for the Presidential inaugural have given rise to the old debate whether there is not a great deal of wastefulness in all these parades, receptions and balls. The money it is said, would be turned to better advantage were it given to relief committees for the sustenance and shelter of the poor.

From a practical standpoint, the latter suggestion hardly fits the situation. Unless the money that will be spent by the thousands who make the journey to Washington on March 4 were spent on the inaugural it might not be spent at all. That would put a long face on many trades and occupations. It would keep money from flowing to the railroads, the taxis, dressmakers, milliners, haberdashers, florists and caterers and a whole host of other commercial and mercantile callings.

But a loosening up of spending will help all these and others not directly benefited. It inevitably will help those very poor over whom the critics of the inaugural are so much concerned. What the world needs is an orgy of spending to get rid of consumable goods and to give employment to unemployed services. The more festive the proceedings at Washington, therefore, the better. The dollar needs to be taken out of its sock.

The Criminal's Callousness

Pomona Progress-Bulletin

The callousness with which professional criminals can pursue their trade was seldom better illustrated than in a recent investigation of a disastrous apartment fire in Cleveland.

In this fire, 13 lives were lost. An investigation has disclosed that the blaze was set by conspirators in an arson plot. Certain men, it is charged stood to profit by the destruction of the building; so professional firebugs were hired, the blaze was carefully started—and 13 people died!

The men responsible had nothing against these 13 people. They hardly so much as knew of their existence. They were out after "oney," and they took what looked like an easy way to get it. The mere fact that their plot would cause a wholesale tragedy seems not to have entered their heads at all.

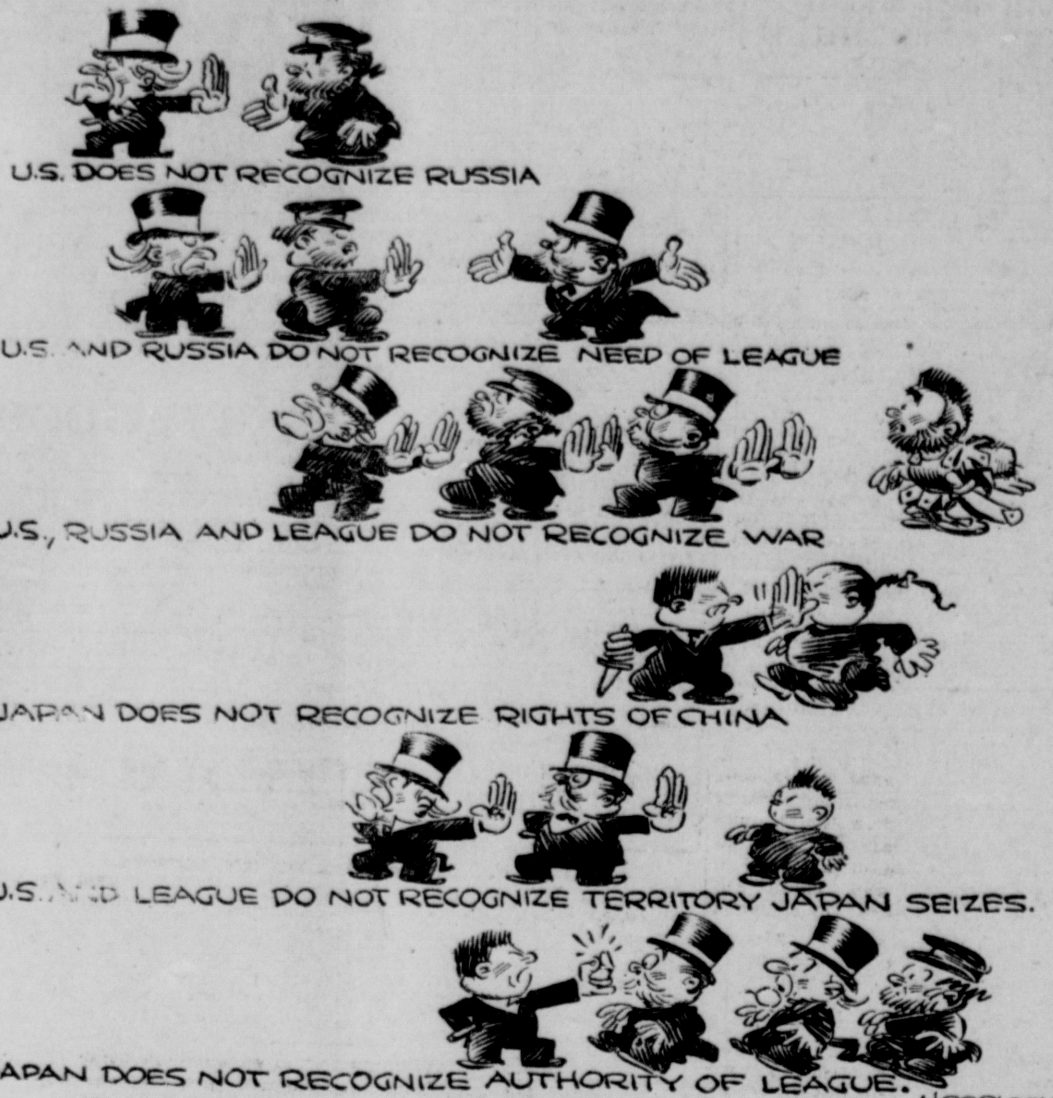

Will Keep Them

The Oakland Tribune

The manner in which Japan defers her threatened departure from the League of Nations may offer some little indication that there remains a chance for agreement. On the other hand, the emphasis which Tokyo places on the assertion that, regardless of what action is taken, Japan will hold to the mandated islands, speaks an opposite meaning. To quit the league and keep the islands would be a double defiance.

The announcement from Tokyo is the same as a declaration that Japan, for all the formalities involved, never considered the islands as mandates but as spoils of war.

More Truth Than Poetry

ESSAY ON POETRY

Old Omar would probably still be unknown in spite of the quatrains he caroled. If his wine-praising lays had eluded the gaze of the late Mr. Edward Fitzgerald. But Fitz head his stuff—and improved it a bit. Remodeled the versification. And the tent-maker's poetry made a big hit. And gave him a swell reputation.

Maeonias, a plutocrat living in Rome. Dug up a large bunch of sestertius. To purchase a cot on a countryside plot. Where Horace could scribble his verses. The lays of this bard might have been penned. To become, like their writer, immortal. If, while he was toiling, his generous friend. Hadn't kept the old wolf from the portal.

T. Gray had no backer to furnish the cash. While he toiled on his immortal poem. Many nabobs, no doubt, might have helped Thomas out. But none of them happened to know him. He did write a piece that established his name. And today every school urchin knows it. But his only reward was a posthumous fame. And it took seven years to compose it.

Bobby Burns didn't have any backers at all. But his muse was exceedingly husky. And whenever said muse fell a prey to the blues. He partook of the drink he called "whiskey." It may be that all of these children of song. Are just what their genius has made them. But the fact still remains that they don't get along. Without someone or something to aid them.

Last nite I waited till pop had got through eating his supper and was half ways through his dizzard and then I went up to my room and bawled down the puppy, saying, Look, pop, the bird and animal man said I could have him on approval.

Well then tell him he can have him back with my full approval, the nerve of some people, pop said.

Proberly meaning including me, and me said, But Willyum he's such a sweet face little thing, and pop said, I don't care if he snoots, I covered with honey, he's still a dog, and dogs have never used me for anything except a tooth sharpener.

Well G, pop this one want, and he's got a real pedigree, pop, the bird and animal man copied it down for me to show you, and here it is, I'll read it to you if you don't think he's a grate dog, I said, And I started to read it out loud, being, Full bred wire haired fox terrier, grandparents, Lady Nickoteen and Lord Effingham Sprinter, parents, Hetherway Dutchees and Lansdale Prince. There, how about that for pedigree, I said.

The dog will turn out to be a snob, he can't help it with a family tree like that, pop said, As soon as the brute found out that my father was any Herb Potts a poor but honest furniture dealer, and my grandfather was one Jake Potts a poor and not even honest politician, he'd properly turn up his royal snoot at me and make me feel like 2 cents in my own house, nothing doing, he said.

No he wouldn't pop, I bet he wouldn't seem to notice a bit of difference, I said, and pop said, He looks like a snob right now.

And he took a bite out of a piece of coconut cake and accidentally left his hand down loose with the rest of the piece, and the puppy quick jumped and grabbed it out of his fingers and ate it. Being pop's favorite kind of cake, and I said, There you are, pop, if he was a snob he wouldn't share your cake like that, would he?

You win for this evening, take him out of my sight, we can't actually turn a titled gentleman out of the house on a nite like this, pop said.

Not actually saying he wouldn't leave me keep him, and I took him back to my room feeling grate, him feeling the same way judging by his tail.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

EDUCATION IN THE EMERGENCY—II

This is the second instalment of forty distinct suggestions regarding ways of meeting the educational crisis produced by the economic crisis, these suggestions having grown out of the discussions of a Citizens Conference on the Crisis in Education called by the President of the United States at the opening of the year.

(7) Administrative control of the schools must be centralized in the superintendent.

(8) State administrative organization of education must be reorganized through the creation of a non-political and professional agency for the administration of the educational policies of the state, where such agency does not already exist.

(9) The state must assume the responsibility within its means of assuring adequate public education to all local communities, irrespective of their financial condition.

(10) We especially urge law-making bodies to give priority to legislation which will alleviate conditions in communities now being required to make injurious curtailments in their school programs because of unusual burdens, inequitable tax systems or faulty machinery.

(11) We urge Congress to provide for federal assistance through emergency loans for a limited period to such states as may make an adequate showing of their inability to maintain reasonable standards of support for public school education.

(12) All governments, local, state, and national, should direct attention to the immediate reformation of the system of taxation.

(13) Immediate efforts should be made through the raising of the general level of commodity prices, the correction of serious economic maladjustments, and otherwise, to increase the volume of income and purchasing power, and thus to provide the moneys necessary for a proper educational program. If this is not done, widespread injury will result, not only to the cause of education, but to the value of all obligations, public and private.

(14) The Conference is deeply impressed with the seriousness of the present situation but feels that the suggestion but feels remedies is beyond the scope of its instructions and mission; therefore this Conference respectfully directs the attention of the President and of the Congress to the danger of gross injury to the cause of education through injudicious and unwise reduction of educational programs, the closing of schools, and otherwise, consequent upon economic conditions.

(15) This Conference recommends the careful consideration of another conference or otherwise, of steps deemed appropriate and necessary for increasing the level of income and of purchasing power.

THE BABY'S DOCTOR

The baby ought to have a doctor to guard his life and health and growth until he enters childhood. Even then the doctor is going to be needed. This is not because I believe the baby is going to be sick. It is because I want to prevent his being even uncomfortable, because he should grow steadily and evenly I want the skilled physician to oversee his program from birth to the run-about age at least.

Few mothers have been trained for their task of child rearing. It is all very well to say that a baby is to have such and such food during the first three months. Maybe this particular baby requires a modification of this diet. Nobody knows except the trained physician.

"The baby is spitting up his food," says an anxious young mother. "He's been doing that for several days. Right after I feed him. What shall I do?"

Call the physician who understands the baby. The child may be spitting up his food because he is getting too much, because there is gas in his stomach, because the food is disagreeable with him, because he wants to. For any one of many reasons. Only the physician who knows about the child can tell. It may be nothing serious and it may be serious in the extreme. Why wait and worry?

The trusted physician is a friend in need. He can help because his emotions are not concerned as yours are. He can examine the child and find out at a decision about his training with a calm, clear mind. You can't. You are afraid that he may starve himself, that he may learn to dislike you, that he may be very ill and die before you can put out a hand to save him. The physician knows better. He knows what a sturdy defiance to sickness and difficulty this atom of humanity can put up and he knows what he needs to

I am pleading for a family physician rather than the specialist. A family physician is a family friend, and that makes all the difference to you. The specialist comes in an emergency at the call of the old family physician. That is time enough. You will help the baby more by following the family physician's directions than you will if you put your own ideas first—and then call in a stranger. Babies don't like strangers.

Special note of the reporter: "During nearly the whole of this day's sitting the members were attracted in numbers to the Senate chamber by the debate going on there; which accounts for the difficulty experienced in keeping the House together."

Senate:

Daniel Webster, answering Calhoun said:

"The gentleman has terminated his speech in a tone of threat and defiance towards this bill even should it become a law."

"He has declared that on the decision of the question now in debate may depend the cause of liberty itself. I am of the same opinion. If one state may secede, 23 may do so. As these secessions go on, what is to constitute the United States. Secession is revolutionary. Nullification is revolutionary."

CHINESE COMMANDER SAYS WAR INEVITABLE

PEIPING, Feb. 21.—(UP)—War along the border of North China is inevitable. Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, Chinese commander, told George Bernard Shaw today.

The playwright, who arrived on the Empress of Britain on a world tour, talked for two hours with Chang and asked him:

"How can the impending trouble be averted?"

"As long as the Japanese military are in the saddle there is no way of avoiding war," Chang replied. "I see no solution but war. China is powerless to save the situation. It all depends on the Japanese military, since it is necessary for China to abandon her policy of non-resistance."

Shaw accepted an invitation to fly over the Great Wall on Friday.

JAPAN REJECTS LEAGUE REPORT ON MANCHURIA

ance that the existing situation shall not be aggravated and that fresh military operations shall not be undertaken.

He said that 17 months ago Japan had promised to withdraw her troops into the South Manchurian railway zone (where they are allowed by treaty) as soon as lives and property were assured. But he continued:

Provinces Occupied

"Today the three eastern provinces (Manchuria) are occupied. Japanese troops have crossed the great wall and attacked Shan-hai-kwan. It is announced that operations are being prepared to occupy Jehol."

Yosuke Matsuoka, dressed in black, solemnly followed Hymans' statement line by line in the English copy as Hymans read in French.

As soon as the assembly adjourned, the attaché of the Japanese delegation handed Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the league, a 1600-word statement for circulation in the assembly, giving Japan's reasons for rejecting the report.

Matsuoka handed copies of the statement to Capt. Anthony Eden of Britain, Edouard Benes of Czechoslovakia, and Hymans.

The statement blamed the league for acting in haste in the early stages of the trouble, "assuming an attitude of condemnation and rallying western opinion against Japan precipitately and with unfortunate effect."

"To this attitude at least a measure of blame is due for what subsequently occurred," the statement said.

Great Uncertainties
The statement declared Japan's acceptance of the report would "create uncertainties and probably disorders in Eastern Asia."

It reiterated Japan's "implicit belief in the sanctity of treaties" but argued that treaty principles must be applied "in a way to harmonize with realities."

It concluded by appealing to the assembly to "think twice before making a decision."

tricts and had been use for years.

Tells of Plot

Disgruntled boys at the Whittier State school at one time last year plotted to take H. E. Barden, director of education at the institution "for a ride," the committee was informed today.

Minutes of a meeting called at the institution contained a record of the purported plot as told by William H. Souther, business manager of the school.

The minutes, as read before the committee today, contained the statement of Souther that a group of boys, unhappy over the administration of the school, told him they planned to run away.

Souther said these youngsters stated that if they could obtain an automobile, they planned to return to the school and take Barden "for a ride."

The minutes disclosed that Souther told his fellow executives that during the first 60 days Barden was educational director, 29 boys ran away from the school and 16 others attempted flight unsuccessfully. Souther previously had told the committee he did not believe Barden filled his position capably.

Senator Bradford Crittenden, Tracy, charged before the committee that the administration of Governor James Rolph Jr., "abused the spirit of civil service."

"It is apparent that the administration has abused the spirit of civil service, not only in the department of institutions, but in all state departments generally," Crittenden said.

The committee resumed its investigation of the Whittier state school for boys with the calling of Mrs. Junius Mertz, auditor of the institution, to testify as to costs.

Mrs. Mertz declared that operating expenses had risen during the last two years in spite of lower costs of foodstuffs and other commodities.
